

Did You Know?

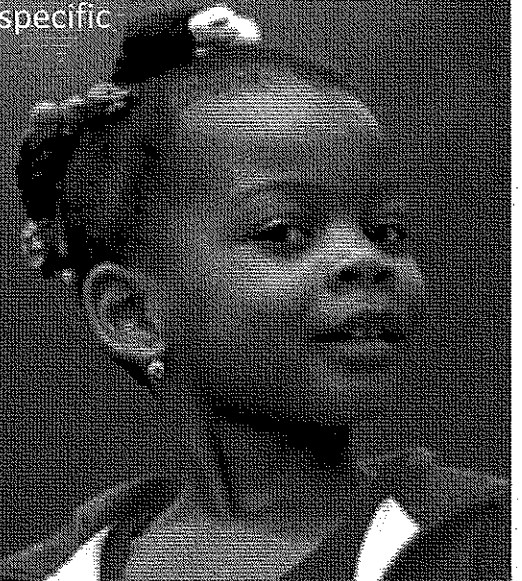

In order to satisfy a federal CAPTA requirement of advising parents of their rights and ability to grieve, the agency provides a DPP-155, Request for Appeal of Child Abuse or Neglect Investigative Finding, to any family receiving services from DCBS. The DPP-155 is provided at the beginning of an assessment/investigation.

- A box on the DPP-155 advises clients how to contact the Ombudsman or the SRA if they feel the investigation/assessment is not handled appropriately or they feel they have been treated unfairly.
- The DPP-155 allows an individual to appeal a substantiation of abuse or neglect.

Providing the client a DPP-154, P&P Service Appeal, allows the individual the option to request an Administrative Hearing. 922 KAR 1:480 is very specific on the types of reasons a hearing request is granted.
